Dear Member,

As the last meeting of the 2014/15 Session, the 156th of The LGS, Phil Firth is leaving us in Anglesey on Saturday 27th June, see below for details.

Please find below in this circular details of those meetings which have been arranged already for the 157th Session plus the Manchester Geological Association meetings over the summer and early Autumn, which, in a neutral agreement, all members of The LGS are entitled to attend.

Field Meeting to Anglesey

SATURDAY 27th June 2015 Meet @ 10:00 am

At Red Wharf Bay FREE Car Park (Lon Y Traeth)

Sorry No Post Code, Grid Ref SH 529 810

Car sharing is strongly encouraged as parking is limited

Leader: Phillip Firth

Aims: To drive around the Anglesey coastline to look at some basalt dyke exposures on Holy Island, the North Coast and the Menai Straits (subject to time). We will discuss the emplacements of these dykes within the context of the geology of Anglesey and volcanism on the Welsh mainland during the British Palaeogene Igneous Province (BPIP) period. Mention will also be made of the hidden dyke swarms revealed by aeromagnetic studies and anisotropy of magnetic susceptibility (AMS) studies (Phil's Master's Project) used to infer the flow of magma during emplacement.
